

ROBUST POWER DISTRIBUTION SYSTEMS AND METHODS

Abstract

The present invention provides systems and methods that allow for individual power sources to be disconnected and reconnected without interrupting the power supply from the other power sources and that allow for these power sources to provide power at substantially the same electrical parameters such as frequency, phase, and voltage.